

Reflection Question for LA (Rubric)

Outcomes	Mastery	Advancing	Progressing	Emerging	Beginning
Outcome 23A: Recognize forms & genres	I can clearly explain exactly what makes an awesome informational video, and I have amazing ideas about the cool things I can do in a video that I just can't do with a regular book or website.	I can name three important things my video needs to have to be successful. I can also clearly explain how making a video will be different from reading a book or website.	I can name a couple of things a video needs, but my ideas are a bit basic. I know videos and books are different, but I have trouble explaining exactly how .	I have a hard time thinking of what makes a video special. I'm a bit confused about the difference between a video format and written text.	I didn't answer the questions, or my answers are totally off-topic.
Outcome 33B: Evaluate information to develop new learning	I perfectly judged if I had the right amount of info and made a super clear plan to fix it. I picked the ultimate "hook" fact and explained exactly why it rocks. I also made a really thoughtful connection between my new research and what I already knew!	I checked if I had too much or too little info and have a good plan to adjust it. I picked a great fact for my hook and explained why it's the best choice. I also connected my new research to things I already knew or thought.	I know if I have too much or too little info, but my plan to fix it is a bit weak. I picked a fact for my hook but didn't really explain why it's high quality. I made a really simple connection to what I knew before.	I'm not sure if I have the right amount of info, and I don't know how to fix it. I just picked a random fact without a reason. I didn't connect my new learning to anything I already knew.	I didn't complete these questions or skipped the evaluation part of the assignment.
Outcome 43B: Effectively access & engage with presented information	I nailed all the tricky, multi-step instructions on the worksheet without missing a beat! When sharing with my partner, I was an amazing listener and asked a super smart question that totally helped me figure out how to level up my video.	I carefully read and followed all the steps on the worksheet to get it done. I listened closely to my partner's feedback and asked a helpful question to clarify how to make my video better.	I followed most of the steps on the worksheet, but maybe skipped or rushed a couple of minor details. I listened to my partner, but the question I asked was pretty basic and didn't help me improve my video very much.	I had a really hard time following the steps on the worksheet and left parts blank or did them incorrectly. I didn't really listen to my partner or ask a question that helped me out.	I didn't follow the instructions, didn't finish the worksheet, or didn't do the partner share and question section.
